

Scientific Center of Dummies and Composite Materials

Scientific directions:

- Physics, chemistry and technology of diamond and other new superhard composite materials production processes under high pressure and temperature conditions.
- Study of the effective application of the created materials in instrumental and other industries.