

International Scientific Symposium “The Second World War and South Caucasus”

Tbilisi, June 3-4, 2015

Dear colleagues,

Organizing committee of symposium has honour to inform that in Tbilisi, on June 3-4, 2015 Business-engineering faculty of Georgian Technical University and Scientific-research centre of European studies, in the framework of European Studies, holds the fourth international symposium “The Second World War and South Caucasus”.

This year is the 70th anniversary of the end of the Second World War. In the war, along progressive humanity of the world, Georgian nation made its contribution. The Second World War put the ground for establishment of UN, accelerated de-colonization process and finished colonial empires. Furthermore, immediately after the end of the Second World War, the World found itself in global polarization and Cold War. By the end of the past century another epochal event occurred – Soviet Union collapsed and Eastern European countries were able to return to their historical space. This symposium is dedicated to clarifying history of European and Caucasian region states, their further development, actual problems of modernity.

Objectives of Symposium are:

- to research foreign policy issues of Georgia and South Caucasian countries in particular European countries and Middle East region as well.
- to study Georgian-Caucasian and Georgian-European relations.
- to study prospects and problems of European integration
- to coordinate working of Georgian and Caucasian European Studies experts and to enlarge contacts with foreigners, first of all, with European colleagues.

The subject of symposium presentations is broad: history, politics, education, religion, literature, art, gender, mass media, law, economics and so on.

Especially we welcome the presentations dedicated to issues of South Caucasian and European countries' relations in fields of history, culture, foreign policy.
